Good afternoon

I would like to express my fears for the new development which for some unknown reason has to be located in the only green space in Whitegate village and once again on my doorstep.

I have been looking at the rusting vent pipe on the 'underground' pumping station which is in fact 2 feet overground and next to the pretty Scenic Walk and biew of the sea. (Photos attached)

As money is currently being thrown around like 'snuff at a wake' and as we are deep into 21st century I don't see any reason why the new monstrosity couldn't be buried in the middle of the bay.

It is a pity we can't contact the Romans who would have come up with a better solution 2000 years ago.
