(5) If, in the opinion of the Board, a biological animal remedy does not meet in full the definition of a generic animal remedy owing to, in particular, differences relating to raw materials or differences between the manufacturing processes of the biological animal remedy and the reference biological animal remedy, the applicant shall comply with Article 13(4) of the Directive.

- (6) (a) An applicant need not provide the results of safety and residue tests or of pre-clinical and clinical trials referred to and in accordance with Annex I to the Directive, if he or she can satisfy the Board, on the basis of appropriate scientific literature, that the active substances in the animal remedy have been present in an authorised animal remedy meeting the requirements of Annex 1 to the Directive, for at least 10 years.

(11) The Board, having obtained permission in writing from the holder of a veterinary product authorisation, may take into account data referred to in Article 13c of the Directive when examining another application for a veterinary product authorisation for an animal remedy having the same qualitative and quantitative composition in active substances and the same pharmaceutical form.
