SUBJECT INSPECTION

Subject Inspections report on the quality of work in individual curriculum areas within a school. They affirm good practice and make recommendations, where appropriate, to aid the further development of the subject in the school.

HOW TO READ THIS REPORT

During this inspection, the inspector evaluated learning and teaching in German under the following headings:

4. Teaching, learning and assessment
5. Subject provision and whole-school support
6. Planning and preparation

Inspectors describe the quality of each of these areas using the Inspectorate's quality continuum which is shown on the final page of this report. The quality continuum provides examples of the language used by inspectors when evaluating and describing the quality of the school's provision in each area.

School context

Coláiste an Phiarsaigh is a coeducational post-primary school situated in County Cork and draws on students from a very wide area. The school is under the patronage of Gaelachas Teoranta and all subjects are taught through the medium of Irish. German is one of three modern languages on offer in the school and it is available in all curricular programmes.

SUMMARY OF MAIN FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS:

Findings

- The quality of teaching and learning was very good with many excellent practices evident.
- Teacher and student use of the target language was highly effective and German was used consistently as the means of communication within the classroom in line with best practice.
- A wide variety of highly commendable methodologies was used to ensure that student learning progressed very well and that learners were engaged and motivated.
- The lack of a base classroom for modern foreign languages (MFL) impacts negatively on the students' learning experience.
- Whole-school support for German and overall for MFL is very good.
- Teachers' individual planning for lessons was very good and all necessary resources and materials were prepared to a very good standard in advance of lessons.

Recommendations

- Teachers should avoid writing in corrections into students' written work and instead put systems, such as correction codes and learner self-assessment grids, in place to enable students to analyse their own errors.
- Management should consider assigning at least one base classroom for MFL.
- In order to share the excellent practice in relation to teaching, learning and assessment, teachers should consider engaging in peer collaborative visits.

DETAILED FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

1. TEACHING, LEARNING, AND ASSESSMENT

- The quality of teaching and learning was very good with many examples of highly effective practice.
- Teachers used the target language consistently as the means of communication in the classroom. Teachers displayed very good linguistic skills and it was evident that students had very good comprehension of German.
- Student use of the target language was very good. Students showed enthusiasm for speaking German and teachers provided students with a good range of activities, such as pair and group work, to ensure that learners had opportunities to improve their oral skills.
- The use of authentic materials and digital technologies was excellent. In one lesson, the website of a school in Germany was used as the source of input of new language in relation to school rules and, in another lesson, a German video clip advertising a driving school was used. Teachers' use of high-quality materials and digital technologies clearly impacted very positively on student enjoyment and motivation.
- A wide variety of very good methodologies was used by teachers to ensure that students' learning progressed well. Methodologies were learner centred, thus ensuring that learners were active in their own learning.
- Exemplary practice was noted in relation to the teaching of grammar. Teachers made very good use of scaffolding to ensure that students produced correct pronouns in terms of case and gender. Due to the highly effective teaching approaches used, students produced very accurate German and this is to be highly commended.
- A variety of assessment for learning (AfL) strategies was used in lessons. Very good practice was noted where students were encouraged to engage in self-assessment of their learning. Excellent examples of peer assessment were used where students played the game 'Buzz' to indicate when errors were made.
- All lessons were theme based which enabled students to develop a bank of key vocabulary and structures relating to the theme in question. There was good integration of the skills of language acquisition which enabled students to consolidate their learning.
- Homework is assigned very regularly and the excellent practice was noted where students had a degree of choice in relation to aspects of homework set. To build on the good practice noted, teachers should consider giving a wider range of more challenging tasks to those students who display considerable ability and aptitude for languages.
- Students' written work is corrected regularly by teachers. An area for development is the follow up required by students on their errors to ensure that learning is consolidated. Teachers should avoid writing in corrections and instead put systems, such as correction codes and learner self-assessment grids, in place to enable students to analyse their own errors.
- The rapport between teachers and students was excellent and students responded very well to teachers' positive disposition. Teachers' classroom management was excellent and student behaviour was very good at all times.

- Teachers are not classroom based which is a disadvantage for students and teachers as the amount of material relating to German on display in the students' learning environment was extremely limited.
- A strong emphasis on the development of literacy skills was noted in lessons. Teachers provided students with a good range of new words and phrases which students noted in their copybooks. This good practice ensures that learners build up a store of language for future use.

2. SUBJECT PROVISION AND WHOLE SCHOOL SUPPORT

- Whole-school support for German and overall for MFL is very good. A comprehensive range of MFL is on offer and uptake by students is very good. All students have the option of taking German when they enrol in first year.
- Timetabling for German is effective. Appropriate time is provided for the language and class periods are appropriately distributed throughout the week.
- Some members of the German department have engaged very actively in continuing professional development (CPD) and this has enriched the department. It is noted that whole-school CPD in relation to teaching and learning has not been provided in the recent past and management is encouraged to consider the provision of same.
- The learning environment is important for students, particularly when learning a foreign language and the lack of a base classroom for MFL impacts on the quality of the student experience. Management should seek to provide a base classroom so that teachers can provide a quality print rich environment to support learning.

3. PLANNING AND PREPARATION

- Teachers' individual planning for lessons was very good and all necessary resources and materials were prepared to a very good standard in advance of lessons.
- The plans for each year group were devised by the individual teachers with responsibility for those groups. It is recommended that teachers engage in greater collaborative planning and use a common template to develop an overarching plan for the delivery of German throughout the school.
- Excellent practice was noted in the development of plans for implementing the new specification in junior cycle for first-year students.
- Teachers meet as a subject department and minutes are kept of meetings. Consideration could be given to forming a MFL department to encourage further collaboration among all MFL teachers.
- As part of school self-evaluation (SSE), senior management analyses certificate results and provides subject departments with the analysis to inform future planning. The current priorities in whole-school SSE relate to the development of student literacy skills. It is recommended that management build further on this and engage in SSE priorities in relation to teaching, learning and assessment.

- In light of the excellent practice in relation to teaching, learning and assessment evident in the German department, teachers should consider engaging in peer visits to lessons with a view to promoting peer collaboration and sharing best practice.

4. CHILD PROTECTION

During the evaluation, the following checks in relation to the school's child protection procedures were conducted:

1. The school principal is aware that revised child protection procedures for primary and post-primary schools came into effect on 11 December 2017 and arrangements are in place to begin the process of implementing these procedures.
2. The name of the designated liaison person for child protection matters was prominently displayed in the school's reception area.
3. The school has a Child Protection policy in place.
4. All teachers are aware that they are mandated persons and of their responsibilities in that regard.

The school met the requirements in relation to each of the checks above.

The draft findings and recommendations arising out of this evaluation were discussed with the principal, deputy principal and subject teachers at the conclusion of the evaluation. The board of management was given an opportunity to comment in writing on the findings and recommendations of the report, and the response of the board will be found in the appendix of this report.

THE INSPECTORATE'S QUALITY CONTINUUM

Inspectors describe the quality of provision in the school using the Inspectorate's quality continuum which is shown below. The quality continuum provides examples of the language used by inspectors when evaluating and describing the quality of the school's provision of each area.

Level	Description	Example of descriptive terms
Very Good	Very good applies where the quality of the areas evaluated is of a very high standard. The very few areas for improvement that exist do not significantly impact on the overall quality of provision. For some schools in this category the quality of what is evaluated is outstanding and provides an example for other schools of exceptionally high standards of provision.	Very good; of a very high quality; very effective practice; highly commendable; very successful; few areas for improvement; notable; of a very high standard. Excellent; outstanding; exceptionally high standard, with very significant strengths; exemplary
Good	Good applies where the strengths in the areas evaluated clearly outweigh the areas in need of improvement. The areas requiring improvement impact on the quality of pupils' learning. The school needs to build on its strengths and take action to address the areas identified as requiring improvement in order to achieve a very good standard.	Good; good quality; valuable; effective practice; competent; useful; commendable; good standard; some areas for improvement
Satisfactory	Satisfactory applies where the quality of provision is adequate. The strengths in what is being evaluated just outweigh the shortcomings. While the shortcomings do not have a significant negative impact they constrain the quality of the learning experiences and should be addressed in order to achieve a better standard.	Satisfactory; adequate; appropriate provision although some possibilities for improvement exist; acceptable level of quality; improvement needed in some areas
Fair	Fair applies where, although there are some strengths in the areas evaluated, deficiencies or shortcomings that outweigh those strengths also exist. The school will have to address certain deficiencies without delay in order to ensure that provision is satisfactory or better.	Fair; evident weaknesses that are impacting on pupils' learning; less than satisfactory; experiencing difficulty; must improve in specified areas; action required to improve
Weak	Weak applies where there are serious deficiencies in the areas evaluated. Immediate and coordinated whole-school action is required to address the areas of concern. In some cases, the intervention of other agencies may be required to support improvements.	Weak; unsatisfactory; insufficient; ineffective; poor; requiring significant change, development or improvement; experiencing significant difficulties;
